Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-5 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-3 of copending Application No. 09/745099. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not yet been patented.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the referenced copending application and would be covered by any patent granted on that copending application since the referenced copending application and the instant application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: an insertion system for an intraocular lens comprising: an intraocular lens, a lens package or holder, deforming means, an insertion device and a pusher.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant would be prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application in the other copending application. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Art Unit: 3732

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Blake (5,643,275).

With respect to claim 1, Blake discloses an insertion system for an intraocular lens, comprising: an intraocular lens (65) having a deformable optical portion; a lens package (12) for storing the lens in a state in which no stress acts on the optical portion of the lens (FIGS.6A-6B) deforming means (20) for deforming the lens to a reduced size, as set forth in column 5, lines 24-31; and an insertion device (14) having an insertion tube (46) through which the deformed lens is inserted into an eye, and a pusher mechanism (40) for pushing and inserting the lens into the eye, wherein the lens package (12) has a function for attachment to the insertion device and a function for acting as a portion of the mechanism to be provided by the insertion device; as best seen in FIGS.1-13.

With respect to claim 2, Blake discloses an insertion system wherein the deforming means (20) is formed integrally with the insertion tube (46); as best seen in FIG.1.

Art Unit: 3732

With respect to claim 3, Blake discloses an insertion system wherein at least a portion of the deforming means is formed integrally with lens package; as best seen in Fig. 7 (a,b).

With respect to claim 4, Blake discloses an insertion system wherein when the lens package (12) is attached to the insertion device (14), the center of the lens coincides with the center axis of a push rod (54), which constitutes the pusher mechanism (64).

With respect to claim 5, Blake discloses an insertion system further comprising a lens moving mechanism (16) for moving the lens from a standby position at which the center of the lens does not coincide with the center axis of a push rod; as best seen in Fig. 6 (a,b), which constitutes the pusher mechanism to an insertion position at which the center of the lens coincides with the center axis of the push rod, as best seen in Figs. 7-13.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
